STOLEN REMBRANDT SOUGHT IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 18 .- An intern tional gang of thieves, specializing in rare paintings, rugs and other art treasures, is being sought in Chicago. The latest coup of the gang was the theft from the art galleries of Hamburg, Germany, of the priceless Rembrandt landscape "Autumn Scene After a Thunderstorm," better known to experts the world over by its German title "Herbstlandschaft Bei Abziehenden Gewitter."

According to Henry Nussle, Swiss consul in Chicago, who today posted a reward of 50,000 marks for the return of the painting, or leading to its recovery, it was stolen on January 5 from the former Imperial gardens in Hamburg. traced to New York, where the trail ended, but information since picked of the most powerful and probably the most difficult of Beethoven's creations, taxed the abilities of the planist visibly, although throughout its playing she imparted to her work the same charm that marked contains and can readily be
